Elk were at one time the most widely distributed member of the deer family in North America. Elk leave the lower elevations in April and May, following the receding snowline back into the cool, high country, where they spend the summer.

Similarly, the Elk View by MossCreek can find itself at home at just about any elevation. The design features three bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, with a master on the main level. A large story-and-a-half vaulted Great Room with exposed timber trusses and an open Kitchen / Dining Room create a dramatic interior. The lower level provides an economical solution for sloping lots, while creating a spacious recreation room and two bedroom suites. A full veranda along the back completes the relaxed feel of this small cabin retreat.
